Index for volume 37

Blue revolution or red herring? Fish farming and development discourse in the Philippines. Philip F. Kelly, No 1, pp 39–57
'Changing my thinking with western woman': Javanese youth's constructions of masculinity. Helen Lette, No 2, pp 195–207
Editorial: popular solutions to the water crisis. Harald D. Frederiksen, No 3, pp 215–218
Environmental degradation in the Loboc River watershed, Bohol Province, Philippines. Peter B. Urich and Philip Reeder, No 3, pp 283–293
Global integration and local identities: engendering the Singaporean Chinese. Christine Doran, No 2, pp 153–164
Introduction to '(Re)negotiating gender in the Asia Pacific region'. Sara Kindon, No 2, pp 123–126
Large dams, restructuring and regional integration in Southeast Asia. Philip Hirsch, No 1, pp 1–20
Modes of resistance: gendered responses to global impositions in coastal Philippines. Pauline Gardiner Barber, No 2, pp 181–194
Participatory catchment management and economic method: an application in Thailand. Roger Attwater, No 3, pp 219–234
Politics and gender: negotiating conceptions of the ideal women in present day Cambodia. Judy Ledgerwood, No 2, pp 139–152
Politics of economic adjustment: the changing nature of women's work in Jharkand, India. Aarti Saihjee, No 2, pp 165–180
Problems in paradise: Taiwanese immigrants to Auckland, New Zealand. Tania Boyer, No 1, pp 59–79
Refocusing on China: the case of Hong Kong's Hutchinson Whampoa. Claude Comtois and Peter J. Rimmer, No 1, pp 89–102
(Re)negotiating gender hierarchy in the new order: a South Sumatran field study. Elizabeth Fuller Collins, No 2, pp 127–138
The changing organisation of work in Malaysia's electronics industry. Rajah Rasiah, No 1, pp 21–37
The Salween River: is international development possible? Glen Paoletto and Juha I. Uitto, No 3, pp 269–282
The tin market collapse in the Kinta Valley, Malaysia — an impact assessment a decade after. Tai-Chee Wong and K.C. Goh, No 1, pp 81–88
Use of the New Zealand foreshore: oral evidence of Maori rights in Otago. Brian Ballantyne and Sue Hanham, No 3, pp 255–268
Watershed planning and management: Pohnpei, Federated States of Micronesia. Christopher Dahl and Bill Raynor, No 3, pp 235–253